Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Journal of Travels in Europe: During the Summer of 1881 June 25. - Steamer Ethiopia left its pier North River at 3.30 p.m., for Glasgow, has 76 saloon passengers on board, day clear and cool, water calm and smooth. As we steamed away from the dock hundreds of handkerchiefs waved us good bye, until they and the land faded from our view, and the sun sank over the wide waters. Spent the night comfortably, the vessel making 10 knots an hour. 26. - Clear, with high cold winds all day; but making good time, overcoats and winter clothing in demand, our good ship rides the deep blue waves like a thing of life, other vessels seen at times in the distance. As I write a number of immense porpoises, probably frightened by the ship, show themselves half out of the water, they seem to be from four to eight feet in length. How do they subsist; or, what do they live on in this briny deep? I do not envy them their habitation, think they must be lonesome, it does well enough this pleasant day to sit here on deck and look over the country where they reside, they seem to have room enough but doubt if they have very agreeable neighbors. At 2 o'clock the sailors throw the line, and find the speed of the vessel to be 12 miles an hour. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
